Peking University or Tsinghua University

DURATION

2.5-3H

TYPE

UNIVERSITY VISIT

INNOVATION ECOSYSTEM

ACCESS

ARRANGED BY GUESTS THEMSELVES

The guests may arrange access to one university directly. Rather than rushing both campuses, use the morning to understand how a leading institution connects research, engineering talent, entrepreneurship and commercialization. At Peking University, a walk can include the West Gate, Weiming Lake and Boya Pagoda; at Tsinghua, the campus story can focus on engineering, laboratories and the university's role in China's technology ecosystem.

TYPE

E&B CURATED JOURNEY

CHOOSE 1 OF 3

Choose one unhurried cultural experience. Enter a courtyard home and talk with a local host about neighborhood life; join a hands-on class to prepare northern Chinese dishes and understand everyday ingredients; or enjoy a hosted Peking duck meal, learning how the duck is carved, wrapped and shared at the table. Each option provides personal conversation and a slower counterpoint to the technology program.

DURATION

2.5-3H

TYPE

E&B CURATED JOURNEY

CONSUMER INSIGHT

Use a 10-task mission card to decode new Chinese brands and hear candid views from younger consumers. Missions may involve trying facial payment, identifying sharing-economy services, spotting blind-box retail and comparing homegrown brands. Senior guests and investment executives gain first-hand observations rather than a polished presentation. Complete the scorecard, debrief the findings with the host and receive a small souvenir if all ten missions are completed.

The walk connects architecture with the people and businesses that reshaped the former French Concession. Finish in a quiet private tea space to taste four or five distinct categories of Chinese tea while learning how origin, aroma, water and brewing shape the cup—an elegant, seated introduction to Chinese tea culture rather than a formal lecture.

ARRIVAL DINNER

RIVER CONFLUENCE

Begin at Changjiahui on the Nanbin Road riverfront, looking across the confluence toward Chaotianmen, Raffles City and the illuminated central peninsula. A refined Chinese or contemporary Sichuan dinner introduces local flavors without making the first meal excessively spicy. The combination of bridges, river traffic and layered hills gives the group an immediate, comfortable introduction to Chongqing after the flight.

VERTICAL MOBILITY

INFRASTRUCTURE

ACCESS

SPECIALIST-LED PRIVATE FIELD SEMINAR

A Chongqing-based urban planner and heritage conservationist leads the full day. She holds dual master's degrees from USC and serves on Chongqing's Historic Conservation Committee. The morning uses Sujiaba Interchange and other layered road systems to explain how extreme terrain changes road geometry, bridge placement, pedestrian circulation and land use—and how infrastructure is integrated into a dense, lived-in city.

RAIL + PEDESTRIAN LEVELS

ACCESS

SAME SPECIALIST-LED FIELD SEMINAR

Continue the same infrastructure theme through Kuixinglou, where what appears to be ground level changes dramatically between connected buildings, and Liziba, where the monorail passes through a high-rise. The planner connects these landmarks to station-area design, vertical pedestrian routes, urban renewal and heritage protection, turning famous viewpoints into an applied discussion of how Chongqing actually works.

Wulong Karst — landscape beyond the megacity

DURATION

10-12H

E&B CURATED JOURNEY

DAY TRIP

A full-day excursion to the Three Natural Bridges landscape, with time for the visitor route, photography and a relaxed local lunch. The immense karst arches and valley scenery provide a complete contrast to the technology and infrastructure program. This is the longer, more physically active option and is best for guests who want a major natural landmark outside the city.

Begin inside the atmospheric Traffic Teahouse with an older Chinese artist who has worked in art education for thirty years. Over tea, discuss art and watch—or sit for—a quick sketch or oil portrait. Then walk through lived-in neighborhoods such as Huangjueping, Linghua Road and the colorful Zaozi Lanya walkway, with the option to add Shibati's restored traditional lanes before lunch.

Move from chips, sensors and screens to finished devices, repair stalls and rapid prototyping, observing how extreme specialization and dense supplier networks shorten product-development cycles. A light observation challenge keeps the visit active and helps the group distinguish components, consumer gadgets and the informal services that connect them.

Talent Park light show

DURATION	45-60 MIN
TYPE	E&B CURATED JOURNEY	E&B CURATED STOP
ACCESS	SHOW CALENDAR TBC

If the municipal show is scheduled, finish the day with an easy waterfront stop at Talent Park. The open lawn and bay frame Nanshan's skyline while coordinated façade lighting, beams and reflections turn the district into a city-scale display. The stop is intentionally short and low-effort after BYD and DJI; if the show calendar changes, the waterfront walk still provides a pleasant evening view.

ACCESS

OPTIONAL · EXHIBITION DATES ALIGN

Use the optional final day for two new Guangming Science City landmarks. The Shenzhen Science & Technology Museum explores digital civilization and innovative futures through interactive galleries. At the nearby Shenzhen International Museum of Art, the inaugural Art and Technology Biennale, A Glimpse of the Infinite, runs through 30 April 2027 and brings together more than fifty artists, scientists and researchers around quantum perception. Both venues sit far from central Nanshan, so allow a substantial transfer window.
